MALTINE

The concentrated extract of Malted Barley, Wheat and Oats, rich in all the nutritious principles, is free from Alcohol and Carbonic Acid, and possesses from five to ten times the virtues of any alcoholic or fermented Extract of Malt, as it contains much larger proportions of Nitrogen, Carbohydrates and Phosphates. It is therefore most particularly useful to mothers while nursing, in cases of insufficie at milk, to delicate and extenunted children, to persons of habitually emaciated body, to Invalids and Convalescents. In the treatment of Phtisis and Consumptive maladies, it has in many Hospitals, and in the practice of renowned Physicians, taken the place of Cod Liver Oil.
Maltine, in itself highly nourishing, is also a natural solvent of all farinaceous food and therefore a great axiliary to sound and healthy digestion; it is agreeable to the palate, so that even little children take it with relish.

ENDYMION.

It is a coincidence that the London and Buenos Ayres Standards were the only newspapers that received advance copies of this remarkable work, the one from the author, and the other from a Premier River Plate friend. As a mere novel the book has certainly little to recommend it, but as a species of political narrative and reflection of high political English life 40 to 50 years ago, it will always possess much interest for a class of light readers luckily not over numerous in the Plate.

The mere fact of Lord Beaconsfield having written the book is sufficient to make it sell, covering the fee paid the author £12,000, for the manuscript, and with which money, we learn by the mail, his Lordship has partially paid for a new house in Curzon-street; but after all, if Endymion were written by a River Plate sheepfarmer, its style, and mould would secure for it a lasting place on the shelves of every Free Library. Every page of the three volumes is full of a certain fringed satire which at first escapes notice; the hit at Yorkshire men is as bitter as the squib against the shabby genteel Somerset House clerk and the dressy stock brokers and city men in general. No portrait in the book can be accepted as full length, and men, women and times are so tossed about that identification is impossible, and the noble Earl, if brought up by the next of kin of some of his characters, can beautifully escape by showing the contradictions of character and events which, with studious ease have been interwoven through the work. Over some of the men, and most of the women, the veil is so thin that any one acquainted with the period will easily recognise the parties who then played prominent parts; but then every character is imperfect and pointedly altered. The author says that ladies are at the root of man's success in London political life, and the charmed world in which Endymion moves makes us ask if there is really one bit of human nature left in such lofty and prized circles. High life grows irritating when one is compelled to wade through pages of the most gilded nonsense and trash at which it is disagreeable to think the late Premier of England is so confessedly at home. Whoever reads the novel carefully through will admit that Lord Beaconsfield is his own hero, and that there is really no plot in the whole story, save the stringy events in the Premier's life, interlarded with his marriage with a rich widow, and the almost inspired affection of a twin sister, who possesses an imaginative power over our hero which possibly accounts for the many blunders of that political party of which Endymion, or let us say Beaconsfield, is or was the head. As a novel any of the author's previous books will take precedence, but as a satire on the vaulting ambition of political pellicrals, not even Horace could do better.

Life can hardly be termed real or earnest where the following is a true picture—

"Waldershare was profligate, but sentimental; unprincipled, but romantic; the child of whim, and the slave of an imagination so freakish and deceptive that it was always impossible to foretell his course. He was alike capable of sacrificing all his feelings to worldly considerations or of forfeiting the world for a visionary caprice. At present his favourite scheme, and one to which he seemed really attached, was to educate Imogene. Under his tuition, he had persuaded himself that she would turn out what he styled 'a great woman.' An age of vast change, according to Waldershare, was impending over us. There was no male career in which one could confide. Most men of mark would probably be victims, but 'a great woman' must always make her way. Whatever the circumstances, she would adapt herself to them; if necessary, would mould and fashion them. His dream was that Imogene should go forth and conquer the world, and that in the sunset of life he should a refuge in some corner of her palaces.

"Imogene was only a child when Waldershare first became a lodger. She used to bring his breakfast to his drawing-room and arrange his ... much, und... and she had a... of previous knowl... profitable study. As ... was eloquent, brilliant ... Imogene listened to him with... during interest and amusement, even when she found some difficulty in following him; but her apprehension was so quick and her tact so fine, that her progress, though she was almost unconscious of it, was remarkable. Sometimes in the evening, while the others were smoking together or playing whist, Waldershare and Imogene, sitting apart, were engaged in apparently the most interesting converse. It was impossible not to observe the animation and earnestness of Waldershare, and the great attention with which his companion responded to his representations. Yet all this time he was only giving her a lecture on Madame de Sévigné."

Lord Beaconsfield's sketch of the opening of the Emancipation and Reform period is terse, but descriptive:—

"An Irish lawyer, a professional agitator, himself a Roman Catholic and therefore ineligible, announced himself as a candidate in opposition to the new minister, and on the day of election, thirty thousand peasants, setting at defiance all the landowners of the county, returned O'Connell at the head of the poll, and placed among not the least memorable of historical events—the Clare election.

"The year 1829 was eventful, but to Ferrars more agitating than anxious. When it was first known that the head of the cabinet, whose colleague had been defeated at Clare, was himself about to propose the emancipation of the Roman Catholics, there was a thrill throughout the country; but after a time the success of the operation was not doubted, and was anticipated as a fresh proof of the irresistible fortune of the heroic statesman. There was some popular discontent in the country at the proposal, but it was mainly organised and stimulated by the Dissenters, and that section of Churchmen who most resembled them. The High Church party, the descendants of the old connection which had rallied round Sacheverell, had subsided into formalism, and shrank from any very active cooperation with their evangelical brethren.

"The English Church had no competent leaders among the clergy. The spirit that has animated and disturbed our latter times seemed quite dead, and no one anticipated its resurrection. The bishops had been selected from college dons, men profoundly ignorant of the condition and the wants of the country. To have edited a Greek play with second-rate success, or to have been the tutor of some considerable patrician, was the qualification then deemed desirable and sufficient for an office, which at this day is at least reserved for eloquence and energy. The social influence of the episcopal bench was nothing. A prelate was rarely seen in the saloons of Zenobia. It is since the depths of religious thought have been probed, and the influence of woman in the spread and sustenance of religious feeling has again been recognised, that fascinating and fashionable prelates have become favoured guests in the refined saloons of the mighty, and, while apparently indulging in the vanities of the hour, have reestablished the influence which in old days guidad a Matilda or the mother of Constantine.

For many this work will have real political significance; the few extracts we have made will suffice more as a suggestion than description of a work over which the whole reading public of Europe is at the moment engaged, and which doubtless will find numerous readers in the Plate.

The Senegale's Mail's.

London, Dec. 20th.

In the Greek Chamber a debate has taken place on the Bill renewing the subsidy to the Greek Navigation Company. It was urged by the Government that the grant was necessary, as the Company's steamers would render important facilities for the conveyance of troops and war material when the time came for taking action against Turkey. According to an Italian paper, the Porte has sent a second Circular to the Powers, in which it contrasts the conduct of the Greek Government with its own calm attitude, and expresses the hope that the Powers will take into consideration the sacrifices it imposed upon itself at Berlin out of respect for them, and ... possibility ... Our Paris Correspondent says ... learns on excellent authority tha... M. Barthèlemy St Hilaire would be glad to resort to arbitration for the settlement of the Greek Question. He thinks that if Turkey and Greece went before a Court of Arbitration, reluctantly or otherwise, they would submit to its decrees, and that the formation of such a Court would render the European concert more intimate.

Our Berlin Correspondent telegraphs that Herr Wettendorf, the Prussian official who undertook the reform of the Turkish finances, has given up his mission as hopeless, and will soon leave Constantinople.

A popular meeting against the Jews has been held in Berlin. It was attended by about two thousand persons. Resolutions were adopted in favour of repressive measures against the Jews. It was also resolved not to make any purchases from them.

A telegram from our Correspondent at Lisbon announces the arrival there of the Channel Fleet. The vessels will remain until the new year, and then cruise to Vigo or Madeira.

Advices from Moscow state that owing to the refusal of the Rector of the University to receive a deputation of students a serious conflict took place between the young men and the police and mounted gendarmes, who had surrounded the the buildings. Ultimately the students were arrested.

Her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, left Windsor Castle on Saturday morning for Osborne.

The Duchess of Westminster died at Bournemouth yesterday, the 52d birthday of her brother, the Duke of Sutherland. Her Grace, whose health had failed for some time, was the fourth daughter of the second Duke, was born on the 16th June, 1834, and married on the 28th April 1852, the first Duke of Westminster. The deceased Peeress was a sister of the late Duchess of Argyll, the late Lady Blantyre and the Duchess of Leinster. Her eldest son, Earl Grosvenor, is married to a daughter of the Earl of Scarborough, and her two eldest daughters to the Marquis of Ormonde and the Hon. Charles Compton Cavendish, eldest son of Lord Chesham.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Frank Buckland, one of the Inspectors of Salmon Fisheries, which took place at an early hour yesterday morning. Mr. Buckland was 54 years of age.

A telegram from our Special Commissioner in Ireland describes the condition of the tenants on the island of Valentia and in other parts of the county Kerry, and the improvements that have been introduced by the late Knight of Kerry, Mr. Bland, of Derryquin, Mr. Mahony, of Dromore, and various other landlords.

Speaking at a meeting near Halifax on Saturday evening on the Irish Question, Mr. Stansfeld, M.P., said the subject was one of two serious a nature to admit of being treated from a party point of view. The Irish people were an impulsive people, and moderation was necessary at the present time. New powers might have to be sought to preserve law and order, and, if so, they would be granted. Under the present Government that object would be attained with the minimum amount of arbitrary force.

In the Stock Exchange on Saturday very little business was passing. Consols were without change. Home railways closed dull. Brighton Deferred fell ½. American and Canadian Securities were, however, firmer and higher. Peruvian Bonds were in strong demand. The Six per Cents rose 1 and the Five per Cents. ¾ per cent. No bullion operations were reported at the Bank of England.

The greatest wool sale of the day was made in the South market—800 arrs. fine light wool from the estancia of Mrs William Cowan sold for 140 m|c per arr.; bellies half price.

The Senate met to-day, and, it was said on 'Change, rejected the names of Casey, Madero and Moores for Bank Directors, approving of Mr Casares as President and Messrs J Ocampo and M Unzue as Directors. The rejection of the foregoing three names caused much surprise in commercial circles, and it is to be regretted.

The two new steamers for the Campana Railway, the Diana and Tridente are in quarantine ith the outer roads; they will, on leaving quarantine, go into dock at San Fernando.

Our Boca correspondent gives the following—

"Mr Neville Fitzgerald begs us to inform our readers that he has a small plot of land for sale on the opposite side of the Riachuelo, opposite Messrs Corti & Riva's, at the Vuelta de Rocha. Anybody interested, by calling at 243 Calle Pedro Mendoza, Boca del Riachuelo, between 9 and 11 o'clock a.m. will be given full particulars.

"It is rumoured that after the 1st of March all ship-building and repairs are to be carried on on that side of the river, thereby great importance will be attached to that particular spot."

In our advices by the mail just in we find the following from Italy, which may interest the many Italian brokers on 'Change:—

"The settling day at the end of November was a disastrous one for many members of the Turin Stock Exchange. The names of more than a dozen defaulters on the Bourse were reported, and among them was a principal officer of the National Bank, who was dismissed by order of the directors."

Messrs Baltar & Quesada's famed auction mart presents the most novel appearance; the whole back offices are torn down, and really Mr Baltar sitting at the street door amidst the ruins of the torn down rooms, reminded one of the scene of Cains Marius sitting amidst the ruins of Carthage. The whole place, with the exception of Baltar & Quesada's memorable back yard, is now thrown into one vast saloon. From the windows of Mr Butner's dining room in the other street, the auction of the finest rams, bulls and horses can be witnessed. The repairs undertaken will cost about 300,000 m/c, but then it will be the finest live cattle auction mart in this country, and our friend Nash will have to look up more steamers to keep up the supply of prize English cattle. The Argentino Bank offices are moved across the street, and Dr Irigoyen's office up-stairs is temporarily closed. For us the chief difficulty will be to find a man in the Plaza with lungs enough to fill the post of auctioneer, or perhaps in future the telephone will be used at all live stock auctions.

ALTERATIVE

This valuable preparation combines all the medicinal virtues of those articles which long experience has proved to possess the most safe and efficient alterative and desobstruent properties, procucing for it a world-wide reputation as

THE GREAT PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD AND RENOVATOR OF THE SYSTEM.

Whenever the economy of the life-giving fluid has been vitated, it should be immediately called to help. It drives out pernicious humours, stimulates the absorbents, overcomes the obstinate state of the pores of the skin, regenerates the disordered organism, reestablishes health and sprits, and brings back a bright colour to the pallid complexion.

Thousands of testimonials establish its immense success for curing Scrofula or King's Evil, Skin and Mercurial diseases, Boils, Carbuncles and Ulcers, Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, Enlargement and Ulceration of the Bones, Joints, Glands or Ligaments, Erysipelas, Epilepsy, Gout, Rheumatism and all diseases originating from a depraved and imperfect state of the Blood.

Dr. JAYNE'S ALTERATIVE is compounded from carefully selected drugs; free from all mineral admixtures and may be Safely Relied on by all needing a medicine to build up the system, cleanse the blood and restore the healthy action of the secretive organs.

ON 'CHANGE.

Jan. 18th, 1881

Patacons	29.25
Cedulas A	87½
National Bank Shares	71½
Bonos	99¾

The rise in the gold market continues, and people are at last beginning to admit that the West Coast war has less to do with the market than the continued unfavorable advices from Europe. It was whispered on 'Change that telegrams to-day announce some failures in the North of France, and that many of our export houses had received messages counter manding orders. Although from one cause or other the whole trade of the country is blocked up, saladero faena nil, wool stagnant, dry hides down; wheat not coming forward, owing to the great rains, still exchange shows no sign of giving way, and this is all the more remarkable in the face of the large exchange remittance by the National Government last week, and the fact that before another month the Provincial Government must remit to London £120,000 for the coupons. Nevertheless exchange was done to-day at 49¾ on London, and 5.30 on Antwerp and Paris. Gold ruled very excited through the day, opening at 29.20, running up to 29.35, and closing at 29.25. For the end of the month ¾ of a million sold at from 29.25 to 29.35. Sales for March at 29.30. Cedulas rule very firm and sold at 87¾, and Bonos Provinciales at 99¾. In 'Acciones' not a single sale at the ring, but at afterhours the stock offered and weak.

The mails per Senegal are very important; the Times of 20th publishes in its city article an extract from the Argent. Budget for 1881, which attracted much notice and caused a favorable impression. The Money Market Review also publishes some very favorable notices about the R. Plate, and all the English papers comment on the news sent by telegram to London that President Roca offers free homestead farms to 50,000 Irish farmers on the Rio Negro.

The Riachuelo question, as we announced yesterday, is at last settled, and Mr Cortinez, our popular Minister of Hacienda, has again proved his anxiety to help Barracas and help commerce. We know of no one who has worked harder to make the Boca what it is than Mr Cortinez; ever since Mr Buergo took the channel in hand, whenever any question with the Nat. Government arose, Mr Cortinez always protected the Boca. We are not surprised therefore that in the present difficulty he has proved true to his antecedents. It must ever be remembered that the little river Riachuelo from the Boca to Barracas bridge is nothing more than a dock, and that the Government is bound to put on a sufficient number of hands, to allow of vessels discharging in that dock. Merchants pay to the Custom House almacenage and eslingage on cargoes that require neither, yet no complaint is made, and if the new moles on the Riachuelo, and new establishments put up along that river call for increased expense by the Custom Honse, the heavy taxes paid ought certainly, be sufficient to cover everything. The Minister must be aware of the great change in the current of Buenos Ayres trade; formerly Barracas was used exclusively for export, to-day it is quite the reverse and becoming rapidly filled with establishments exclusively for imports. To compel a vessel with a pine or coal cargo to unload at the Government mole in the Boca and put the cargo in the lighters, when by pushing up the stream, say a few hundred yards, the vessels could discharge into consignees or owners' yards would be indeed a monstrosity to which Mr Cortinez, we feel certain, would never be a party. The Riachuelo is in every sense a dock, and the Custom House must be prepared with hands sufficient to allow of vessels discharging and loading at every point in that dock.

It is rather a fortunate circumstance for this market that we have found in the ports of South Africa such good markets for our maize. We hear the maize crop at present beats all the maize crops ever known in the Plate; the whole country is covered with maize and the yield is enormous.

We call attention to Messrs Baltar & Quesada's notice in another column, of the sale of fine estancia lands in Santa Fe and Cordova, for account of Mr Gibson; this is a rare chance for those who want to secure a league

A native colleague says that the chief feature of the last masquerade balls at the Opera House was the presence of a large number of Britishers, who, during the night, gave most lively proof that the French philosopher's axiom as to the English 'taking their pleasures sadly' is all moonshine.

In the city obituary yesterday there was one death from 'cold in the heart.' A cold in the head is a common disease, but one in the heart not so much so.

Our French colleague, L'Union Francaise announces that Count Amelot de Chaillou will shortly return to Buenos Aires.

The Lord Mayor's call for bids for the slaughter of stray dogs has not evoked a single response, as the capitalists who might be likely to invest their money and valuable time in the business have a lively recollection of the fact that an enterprising brother who rashly embarked in it last year was the next thing to 'Boycotted,' 'Cave canem.'

A human skeleton has been found in the Giles camps with the head almost separated from the body. The doctors say it has been lying there for fully six months. Some victim of murder, or perhaps a suicide.

We feel much pleasure in saluting the Rev. Mr Lett of Rosario, who is on a visit to town: he reports Rosario to be flourishing, and all friends and subscribers there in excellent health.

There is talk of erecting a new market in Plaza Temple. What is wanted is free trade in meat and prog and provender of all kinds: market privileges are as bad as Bank privileges, or monopolies of any kind.

Advcies from Cordoba say that the cattle breeders of that province are putting their heads together to see how they can export condensed milk to Europe.

The new camps at Gainza are brought within 40 hours of Buenos Aires through the new diligence service about to be opened between Fort Lavalle and Fort Gainza. A railway branch in that direction is merely a question of a short time.

Another expedition against the Indians in the South is being organized by General Villegas at Choel-e-Choel. The point aimed at is Las Manzanas, described as a beautiful territory by Colonel Host.

The Dolores men are going to start a produce market in that town. Nevertheless, the capital of the Republic will always remain the Mecca of wool and hide men, it 500 camp markets were opened to-morrow.

Mr James Wilson is the new President of the Horticultural Society; Mr Charles Davis is Treasurer, Mr Luis Sattler Secretary, and amongst the board we are glad to see the names of Mr Mathew Forrester and Mr Francis Younger.

The National Government has opened a supplementary credit of half a million pats for the extension of the Central North and Andine Railways.

'Boycotting' is now the great topic in the cafes and 'restaurants.' Our native friends are sorely puzzled to make head or tail of the new term, and want to know who the 'muchacho' is who is 'cotted,' or what he has done. There was a hot Tenant Right debate yesterday at a brokers' lunch, which, on a division, ended in a tie.

Some errors crept into the advertizement in yesterday's issue in reference to the Lujan Races; amongst them fifty thousand was put for half a million m|c as the prize for the Great Lujan Handicap. Such a racing prize has never been heard of before in the Plate.

SCOTCH CHURCH.

To the Editor of the Standard.

Dear Sir,

Some time ago an assistant was brought out to help our worthy and esteemed pastor, in the discharge of his onerous and multifarious duties. A meeting was held latelty to put on a more permanent basis the relation ship existing between our clergymen. I am glad to see from the interest displayed that our countrymen are rousing themselves to a sense of their duties in regard to the church.

There is another institution of great importance to our community, in which I would like to see some little interest taken: the day school

…delightful shower of rain on …day evening did not reduce the …perature: on the contrary, yes…erday was a rather hot day. The camps and quintas look superb. The frequent rains ensure health and plenty both for the labouring swain and the city folk.

From Chile 'nada.' 'What is up?' Every day that passes without news raises the hopes of Peruvian sympathisers, but outsiders, who dont care a jot which side wins, and there are many in this category, say that when the news does come, it will be the same story as ever since the war began—a Chilian victory. 'Quien sabe?' Chile has ordered another war vessel, carrying two 25 tons, in England. That formidable Republic, Colombia, has also ordered a couple of ironclads, which seem the most fashionable toy now with all Governments, both in the Old and New Worlds.

Another consignment of arms has arrived from Europe for the National Government, and more are expected. The ironclad Admiral Brown will not sail from England for the Plate till June next.

The Turn Verein concert will take place to-night: it was suspended yesterday owing to several unforeseen obstaclee. It is needless to state that the concert will be one of the greatest treats of the season.

Three suicides and a duel in town, and two murders and more than one attempt in the same direction, to say nothing of robberies, assaults, 'estafas' and 'escandalos' comprised the crime list published yesterday. This far above the average is allowance.

It seems to be generally admitted now that the fatal cases in Calle Independencia were caused by the family's dinner having been cooked with firewood broken from an old cask in which arsenical sheepwash had been kept. In the U. States another terrible case has occurred in which half a wedding party were sent to 'Kingdom come', owing to the master of the house having left some arsenic on a shelf in the kitchen, and the cook salted the soup with it.

We have received a letter from Seapoint Terrace, Cloutarf, Dublin, requesting us to seek some information about George and Ralph Atkinson, who left Ireland for Buenos Aires in July 1870, and their family have never heard a word from or of them since then. We shall feel obliged for any information concerning them.

The Provincial Government archives are to be overhauled and put in order. As there are over 60,000 documents lying higgledy-piggledy in these admirably kept archives, it is fair to assume that the hair of Don Trinity Osuna, who has undertaken to evolve order from this highly discreditable chaos, will be grey before he completes his task.

The expected political explosion in Montevideo has not taken place yet. In the Deparments Santos has no adherents, and his expected 'coup d'etat' meets with no sympathy. The Colorado party have issued a circular calling on their adherents 'to register,' and two newspapers have been started to support the same political creed—whatever it is, for we candidly confess ignorance on the subject.

We salute our new Montevidean colleague the Heraldo. It is a large sized sheet with good leaders and plenty of news, and we wish it success.

A most extraordinary occurrence took place on Sunday night at the Colon Theatre. An absent-minded gentleman, with his son, a boy of eleven years, occupied seats in the 'tertulias altas', and, when the performance was over, he went home, leaving the little fellow asleep in his seat. This singular individual only remembered his child when he was more than half-way home, and rushed back to the theatre in a state of wild excitement: but the place was shut up, and his frantic knocking at the door was unheeded: he then applied to the police who, most improperly we think, took the matter very coolly and would not make even an effort to have the theatre opened. The unfortunate father had to wait till morning, and, when he then rushed in, half mad with anxiety, the poor little boy was found

THE LONDON AND RIVER PLATE BANK.

The 18th ordinary meeting of the shareholders in the London and River Plate Bank (Limited) was held yesterday at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, for the purpose of receiving a report and statement of accounts and declaring a dividend. Mr George W Drabble, the chairman of the company, presided.

Mr George Warden, the secretary, having read the notice calling the meeting, presented the report of the directors, which said:—

"In placing before the shareholders the 18th annual report the directors have satisfaction in congratulating them upon the progress of the bank's operations and the good results attained. It is true that lower rates of interest continue to prevail in the River Plate than in former years, but, on the other hand, business is on a larger scale and based on a sounder system. The resources of the country continue to be steadily developed, giving hopes of an increasing prosperity. After making the customary ample provision for bad and doubtful debts, adding to the reserve fund the sum of £10,000, thus raising it to £150,000, and reducing the cost of the bank's premises abroad by writing off the sum of £10,000, the directors are enabled to declare a dividend of 4 per cent and a bonus of 2 per cent for the half year ended September 30, 1880, being, with the interim dividend paid in June, 10 per cent for the year. A balance of £4,459 14s. 11d. will be carried forward to the profit and loss account for the current year. The directors who retire by rotation on this occasion are Messrs George Wilkinson Drabble, James Hanning and Charles Hemery, who, being eligible, offer themselves for re-election. Dividend warrants, free of income tax, will be issued, payable on the 20th December."

The Chairman said he thought he could fairly assume that the report and accounts placed in the hands of the shareholders would meet their full approval, and in the few remarks he should make in moving their adoption he would limit his observations to the accounts as presented with the report. First of all, they would find that the balance-sheet presented the same strong and sound features as it had done upon all previous occasions; indeed, in some respects more so. It would be noted that the cash in hand exhibited more than at the close of last year, when it figured for £1,151,000, whereas on the present ocasion it amounted to £1,726,000. At first sight it might appear undesirable to have so large balances in hand, but as in doing so the bank had realised a profit, it was an indication that their policy was at least a sound one. One reason was that the rate of exchange at the River Plate had favoured remittances at an earlier date than usual, and the maturing of those bills placed them with very large cash resources. On the other hand, the large amount of deposits which had been placed on deposit at the branches swelled up the total cash to the large amount mentioned. The local business was sound, and local bills discounted represented about the same amount as before, while, on the other hand, the bills payable had somewhat increased. The notes in circulation had also increased, chiefly in Montevideo, where the credit of the bank, having become consolidated, the mercantile community had been induced to take the bank's notes readily, which, on account of previous misfortunes at other banks, they were not before so well inclined to do. Now, however, the public considered them as good as cash, and found them extremely convenient in transacting their daily business. The rebate was more or less the same as last year. Approaching the profit and loss account, he said that he might fairly congratulate the shareholders upon the satisfactory outcome of the years operations. The gross profits amounted to £125,000, as compared with £100,000 last year, and in reference to that he would make the same observations which he had made upon former occasions—that in all their calculations the board had made full and ample provision for all bad and doubtful debts, and if they erred at all in that respect they preferred to err on the safe side, by making the most ample provision for all possible contingencies, which, in common with his colleagues, he considered the essence of sound banking. At the same time, it was worthy of remark that whilst they had made increased profits they had diminished their expenses. For the year under review the working expenses amounted to £43,400, whilst for the previous year they were £44,900, showing a decrease of £1,500. He, however, must not be understood as saying that would always be the case, because as the bank's business kept increasing there must, of course, be some increase in the salaries &c. A small sum had been written off the bank furniture account, and the sum of £10,000 had been written off the bank premises account. That might seem a large amount, but it had been deemed best at the close of a good year to make a substantial reduction in that account. At the same time, in order to strengthen the general position of the bank the board had decided upon carrying £10,000 to the reserve fund. That was a step which he believed would meet with the hearty approval of the shareholders, and the policy of the board would be to go on increasing the reserve fund until it arrived at its old figure and perhaps still further. The dividend for the half year would be 4 per cent, with an added bonus of 2 per cent, payment of which would absorb £36,000. It might be asked why they did not pay a dividend of 10 per cent. The reply was that the board much preferred paying a steady 8 per cent with an added bonus in such years as extra profits had been earned. That their policy had met with the general approval of the shareholders was abundantly evidenced in the very slight fluctuations in the price of the bank's shares during the year. To his mind it was a very consoling feature that the bank was able to wind up the year—which had not been without its troubles and anxieties—in so satisfactory a manner, and he hoped and believed that the future would be equally as good as the present. The bank's business was increasing; the managers acted in accordance with the policy inculcated by the board, and with the more settled state of political affairs there was no reason why the business should not largely increase, and the bank enjoy a good year. When he addressed them last year he thought it well to mention one point of anxiety on the part of the board, which was the then forthcoming presidential elections, as until the new president was installed there was cause for grave anxiety, and that happened between March and August, during which it was trying times for the board. But, happily, with the new president, things had settled down, the civil war which then raged at Buenos Aires, not only had not extended to other provinces as was feared, but it had been put an end to, and business was resuming its flow in wonted channels. That being the case there was no reason why the progress of the country should not still continue and afford a good field for the bank's operations. Notwithstanding that, he must, however, state that the bank had to contend with a low rate of interest now current in those countries, very different from former years. There was also the severe competition of other banking establishments, notably that of the Provincial Bank, which, aided by its fiscal privileges, exercised a predominant influence, and, as he contended, not always in the soundest direction. So long, however, as peace was maintained—and, as he had already said, there were reasonable hopes for expecting this—the board trusted, with the large capital at their command and the well-merited credit enjoyed by the bank, both in London and at all their branches abroad, to be able to meet the shareholders next year with another satisfactory report. He concluded by moving the adoption of the report and accounts.

Mr T S Richardson, one of the directors, briefly seconded the motion, which was agreed to without discussion, and the dividend and bonus declared.

The retiring directors were unanimously re-elected.

The Chairman said he felt very great pleasure in moving the next resolution which was—'That the best thanks of the meeting be given to the consulting directors, managers, and staff of the respective establishments for the zeal and ability with which they have conducted the affairs of the bank.' He thought it was unnecessary for him to add one word to that resolution beyond saying it had the full concurrence and approval of the board. In the consulting director, Mr Sassenberg, they had a gentleman of undoubted ability, unimpeached probity, and large experience, and moreover one who had long been and still was resident in Buenos Aires.

Mr T S Richardson seconded the motion with much pleasure, and it was adopted unanimously.

The auditors were then unanimously reappointed.

Upon the motion of Mr J W N Bentley, seconded by Mr Charles Green, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman and his colleagues, and the proceedings terminated.

Vendere en remate a la mas alta postura y con la base indicada, la mas comoda barraca de las existentes en los alrededores de la Plaza 11 de Setiembre, edificado en todo el gran terreno indicado, pues solo tiene los patios necesarios para desagoo y ventilacion de los espaciosos graneros. Actualmente esta alquilada en $7000 m|c., incluyando la espaciosa y lujosa casa para familia (casa alta), edificada en terreno de 15 varas de frente a Jujuy por todo el fondo. Detalle de este esplendido edificio—12 hermosas piezas, incluyendo el gran salon que tiene todo el frente, cuarto de bano, gran cocina con fogon y cocina economica; la casa es hecha en cal, maderas duras y todos los materiales de lo mejor, estufas de marmol negro, como lo podran ver los interesados; las piezas ricamente empapeladas, cielos razos de yeso desde la entrada hasta el ultimo cuarto, escalera de caoba, una galeria en todo el frente de las piezas (unas de 40 varas) con vidrios de colores y armazon de fierro; las paredes de esta galeria, vestibulo y entrada pintado al oleo, gran algibe, gas y aguas corrientes en toda la casa, tres piezas bajas para escritorio iguales en todo a las altas, gran puerta a la calle de cedro, celocias, campanilla electrica, letrinas con inodoro, cochera, caballeriza. En fin, es preciso visitar la casa y barraca para poder apreciar su verdadero merito, situada a una cuadra de la Plaza 11 de Setiembre, calle empedrado, alumbrado a gas y con tramway a la puerta cada cinco minutos.

No olviden los interesados la renta que produce, la importancia que este barrio va a tomar con la Estacion principal del Ferro-Carril a dos cuadras, la que estara dentro de muy poco tiempo, asi como el gran paseo proyectado en esta plaza, a una cuadra de esta propiedad.

Por otros datos verme en la Bolsa de Comercio, Victoria 686 o Bolivar 66.
